

What happened?

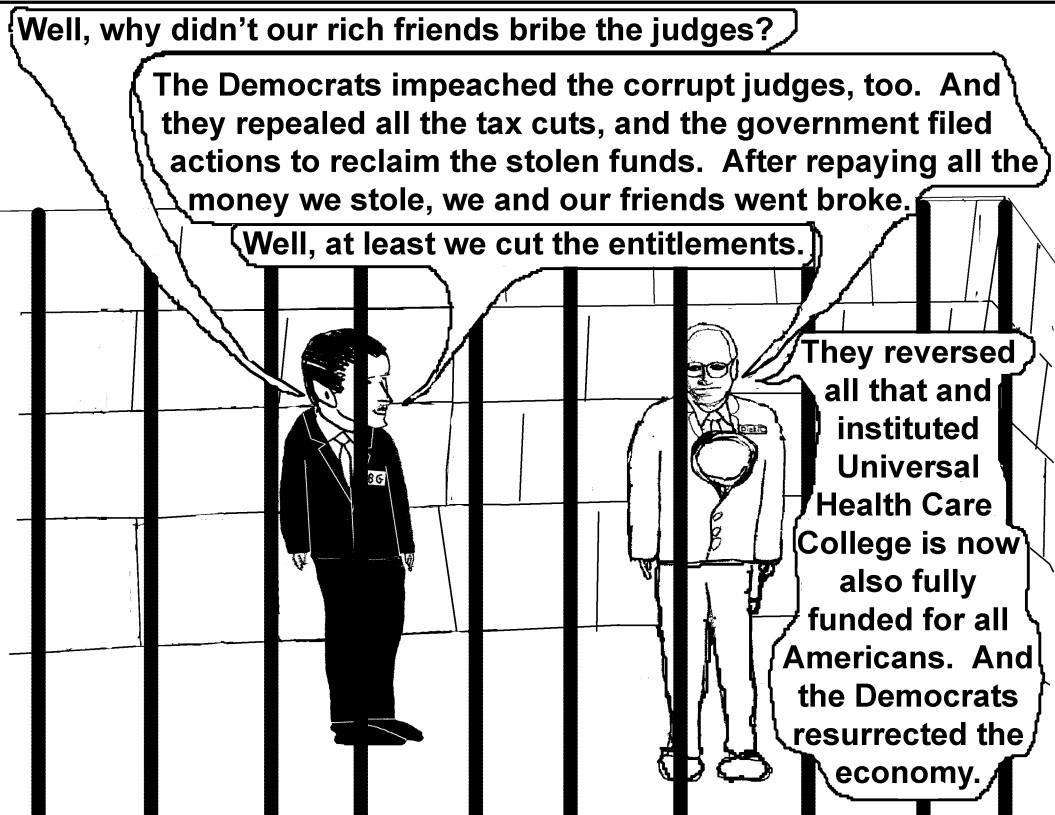

This is an alternate universe where the Democrats have backbones.

They had the courage to make Dennis Speaker of the House. Then when they impeached us, he became President and he appointed Cynthia to be his Vice President. The Democrats all voted to confirm her.

That took courage. Why didn't the executives at Blackwater and Bechtel threaten to cut the bribes?

They did. But Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, Jr., had so much backbone that he had them prosecuted. They're down the hall.

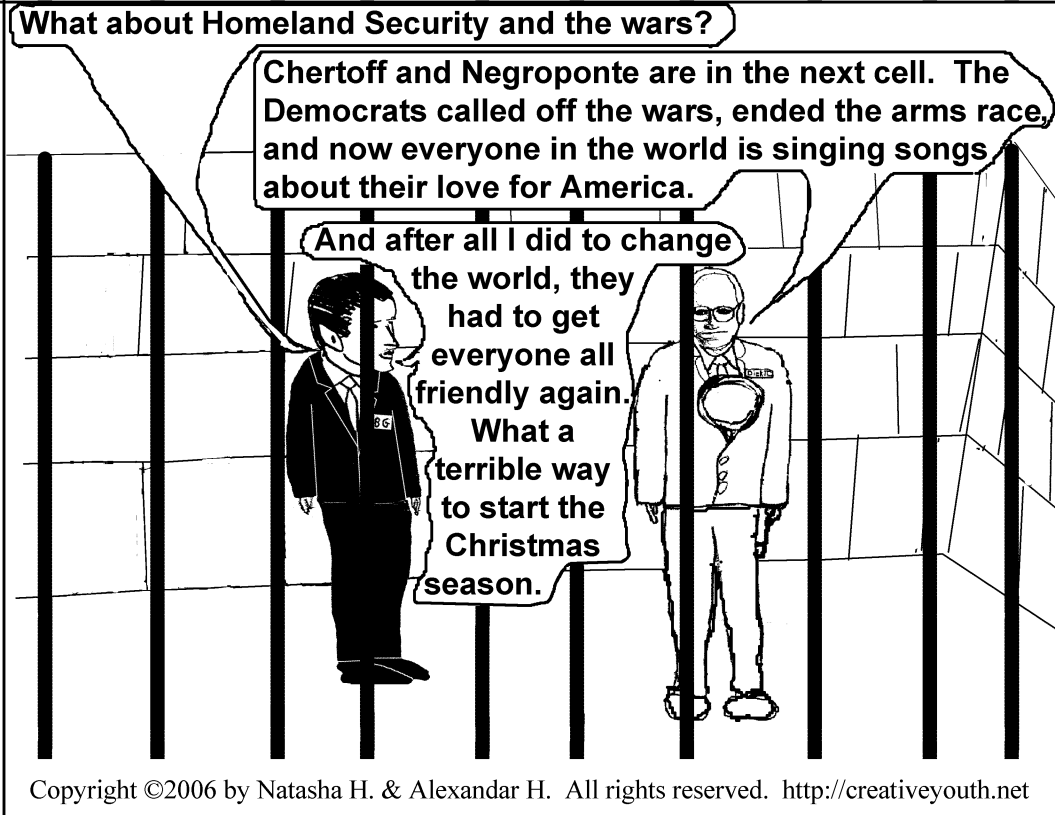

Well, why didn't our rich friends bribe the judges?

The Democrats impeached the corrupt judges, too. And they repealed all the tax cuts, and the government filed actions to reclaim the stolen funds. After repaying all the money we stole, we and our friends went broke.

Well, at least we cut the entitlements.

They reversed all that and instituted Universal Health Care. College is now also fully funded for all Americans. And the Democrats resurrected the economy.

What about Homeland Security and the wars?

Chertoff and Negroponte are in the next cell. The Democrats called off the wars, ended the arms race, and now everyone in the world is singing songs about their love for America.

And after all I did to change the world, they had to get everyone all friendly again. What a terrible way to start the Christmas season.
