

Now boys and girls, I'm Barack, the new Congressional spokesperson for the tobacco industry. You have probably all heard that propaganda about how smoking is bad, right? Well, look where smoking's gotten me. I'm a U.S. Senator. As soon as I figure out a way to get all my opponents disqualified, I'll be President. So smoking leads to the Presidency.

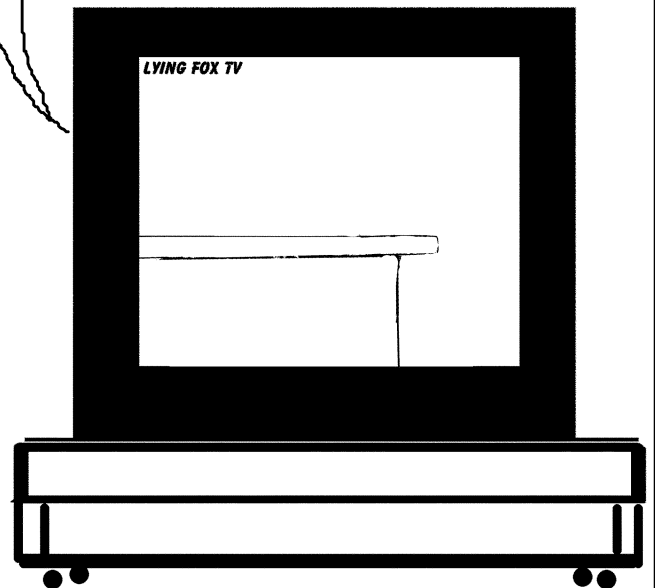

I love this Barack. He always uses dirty underhanded tricks to disqualify his primary opponents. He even destroyed his mentor in 1996 when he disqualified all four opponents in the state senate race. But what if he's too smart for us?

Are you kidding? We've gotten him to vote more than 20 times to keep the war going. After the primaries, we'll make sure the media exposes his voting record and his dirty tricks. He'll lose the liberals, the people who like fair elections, anyone who opposes war and everyone on our side. He'll make McGovern look like a big winner.

And now, the next question goes to John from North Carolina... Where's John? Did he run out on another debate?
